ANOTHER INVESTIGATION IN CONGRESSIONAL MILL

START SIFTING OF CHARGES IN BUREAU PROBE

Special Committee Meets To Map Out Course Of Action.

Washington, March 14.—Another big investigation was thrown into the congressional mill today.

Meeting behind closed doors, the special committee directed to investigate the charges of Senator Couzens, Republican, of "irregularities" in the bureau of internal revenue held its first session to map out the program and scope of its inquiry.

David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue and chiefs of the various units in the bureau, were called as the first witnesses. Blair agreed to place at the disposal of the investigators all the records of his bureau, including also the prohibition enforcement unit, headed by Roy A. Haynes.

Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, chairman, indicated that the scope of the inquiry would be as extensive and far reaching as those of the two rival investigating attractions, Teapot Dome and the Daugherty committee.

The entire question of prohibition enforcement, which has been assailed spasmodically both in the senate and the house will be thoroughly investigated, Watson said.

CRABBE DEFENDS COURSE IN REPLY

Columbus, March 14.—Attorney General Crabbe, replying to the charges of the state industrial commission that his department has been negligent in caring for claims for workmen's compensation left with him for settlement, declared that administration of the workmen's compensation law should not mean that the "last pound of flesh" should be exacted by the state.

One of the industrial commission's criticisms was directed against the attorney general for alleged failure to appeal the case in which the widow of Daniel Foley of Toledo was awarded $5,000 against the commission as a result of Foley's death. In his statement the attorney general said Attorney Frank Calkins, who represented the attorney general's office in defending the commission in the suit, had explained that he was called out of the city immediately after the trial and though he had left instruction for a motion for a new trial to be filed, the motion was not filed within the three days' limit.

The attorney general also pointed out that the chief medical officer of the industrial commission had recommended that the Foley claim be allowed.

DEATH LAYS HEAVY HAND ON MINING SECTION IN UTAH

Castle Gate, Utah, Mar. 14.—Only a few more words and the word of the tragic mine disaster which snuffed out the lives of 173 men Saturday in three terrific blasts of poisonous gases in mine number 2 of the Utah Fuel Company.

Death, which stalked over this camp early Saturday morning played no favorites. Hardly a family escaped the sharp edges of its deadly scythe when he sealed all avenues of escapes in the long dark tunnels, striking right and left until the last man had been cut down. Every part of the mine has been explored by the rescue crews and 163 bodies have been recovered.

It is believed that a more minute search will reveal the remaining ten sometime today.

GRAND JURY IS HEARING EVIDENCE

Washington, March 14.—A special grand jury was convened here to hear evidence about alleged improper receipt of money by "two congressmen" which the Chicago grand jury that indicted Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, mentioned in its final report.

CELEBRATION OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY MAY DELAY BONUS

Washington, Mar. 14.—Celebration of St. Patrick's Day on next Monday may delay the new soldiers' bonus bill in the house, it developed today.

Chairman Green of the ways and means committee had planned to throw the bill into the house Monday and to put it through "with a whoop," but the passage may have to be delayed until Tuesday.

The reason is that many congressmen of Irish extraction have engagements to deliver orations or attend celebrations and banquets in honor of Ireland's patron saint. They are generally in favor of bonus and have appealed to Green to let the bill go over for a day.

DAUGHERTY IS TOO BUSY TO ANSWER

Washington, March 14.—Attorney General Daugherty gave out a statement saying he was too much occupied with his duties to make any comment on the testimony of Mrs. Roxie Stinson Smith about Jesse Smith and Daugherty. "My attorneys are giving their attention to the matter to the extent that they are permitted to participate in the alleged hearing," said Daugherty. "If pertinent inquiries regarding the department of justice and the official acts of the attorney-general only were made and competent testimony taken the whole matter could be fully and finally disposed of in a week or 10 days."

DEATH HOUSE, WILLIAM GATES, RICHARD HEATON & DIAGRAM OF DEATH SCENE.

Richard Heaton, a wealthy commission merchant, of Louisville, Ky., grew insanely jealous of his wife and William Gates, a friend and former city employee. Heaton leased this house in Louisville and then kidnapped Gates, whom he kept for two days, strapped to a mattress pegged to the floor. In the meantime he had prepared the room as an amateur operating room, intending to mutilate his captive. Gates managed to break loose and kill Heaton with a revolver he had in his pocket. Heyde Conrad, who occupied the room at the left, was a friend of Heaton's, and was in the room for a time while Gates was a prisoner there. Conrad was released by the police when he showed that he was there because he was told by Heaton that unless he came, he, too, would be killed.

GIRL STAMPS OUT LIFE OF PARENT IN FLORIDA IS CHARGE

Tampa, Fla., March 14.—I jumped up and down on daddy's chest fully 30 times as he lay on the ground groaning," John Eva Winchester, 19 years old, Seffner school girl, in jail here on a charge of having murdered her father, J. C. Winchester, 65 years old, at their home near Seffner, 12 miles from here, is reported to have confessed.

"Mother made me do it," the girl continued. "She said daddy was a devil and that if I did not kill him God would not love me. So I jumped up and down on his body, and then we listened to see if he was still breathing, and when he was, I jumped on him some more until he stopped breathing, and lay still. Then mother and I dragged daddy back to the house and left him on the doorstep and went away."

JUDGE CURTIS D. WILBUR WILL BE NEW SECRETARY OF AMERICAN NAVY

Washington, March 14.—Curtis D. Wilbur, chief justice of the California supreme court will be the new secretary of the navy, succeeding Edwin Denby, who resigned on March 10 because of the investigation into naval oil leases.

President Coolidge prevailed upon the California jurist to accept the post after Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, had declined to be "drafted" to serve. The acceptance of Justice Wilbur was received at the White House early this morning by telegraph.

Justice Wilbur will be one of the few graduates of the United States naval academy who has occupied the navy post in the cabinet. He graduated at Annapolis in 1888 but forsook a naval career almost immediately and took up law, starting practice at Los Angeles two years later. He became a deputy district attorney in 1899 and in 1903 went to the bench where he has remained since.

Wilbur was born in Boonsboro, Ia., and is 56 years old.

The president's first cabinet nomination is expected to go to the senate at once, where immediate action

MRS. STILLMAN WINS BATTLE TO PREVENT HUSBAND OPENING SUIT

New York, March 14.—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman today won her long legal battle to prevent her husband, James A. Stillman from reopening of his suit to have Baby Guy Stillman declared illegitimate and seeking to establish grounds on which to sue for divorce.

The victory came in the decision of the appellate division in Brooklyn not to set aside the decision of the supreme court which had accepted the report of a special referee declaring Guy legitimate and declining to accept the accusations Stillman made involving his wife and Fred Beauvis, Indian guide, Stillman had alleged was the father of the child.

Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, sought to re-open the case on the ground of the famous "confession" letter, which he alleged

AMERICAN GIRL CHARGES ITALIAN HUSBAND THREATENED TO KILL HER IN COURT PETITION

Paris, March 14.—Charging her husband, General Pierre Ruggero Piccio, an Italian ace and member of Premier Mussolini's government had threatened her with death, Madame Piccio, a beautiful American woman, today appealed to the French courts to have her child and her jewels restored to her.

Madame Piccio, before her marriage was Miss Lorando Batchelder of Chicago. She was born in New Orleans.

Madame Piccio's own story follows: "The climax of an Italian's inability to understand the character of an American girl came the night of a big diplomatic dinner in my home. "During the conversation I supported the viewpoint of an American guest, Mrs. Godfrey Miller, who contended that she had a right to attend the theater with a man not her husband."

"My attitude enraged my husband. He dragged me weeping to my bedroom. There I undressed and prepared for bed, but changed my mind, putting on slippers and evening gown. When I reappeared my husband threw an onyx cigarette box at me and then began throwing dinner plates at my head. Then he knocked me down in the presence of the guests who quickly fled."

FORMER OPERATIVE IN JUSTICE DEPARTMENT TELLS OF LARGE BRIBE

Washington, March 14.—The most amazing story of bribery, corruption and intrigue that was ever spread upon public records concerning people high in government life was divulged to the senate committee investigating Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty today by Gaston B. Means, a former operative of the department of justice whose checkered career has led him in and out of many spectacular cases.

Many sensations tumbled over sensations so fast that the grave senators and startled spectators could hardly follow the significance of Means' lurid allegations. The high point came when he declared that in February 1922, he collected $100,000 in cash from a Japanese aircraft representative here and turned the money over to Jess W. Smith, close friend and confidant of the attorney general. Smith committed suicide in Daugherty's apartment here a year ago.

The money, in new one thousand dollar bills, a full hundred of them, Means said, was delivered to him in the Bellevue Hotel here, near the department of justice. It came from the representative of the Mitsu Company, a Japanese concern, which was the financial backer of the Standard Aircraft Corporation against which corporation the government at the time had a war fraud suit involving several millions of dollars.

Subsequently it developed that the government's suit against the Standard Company was withdrawn at the request of the war department.

What became of this money, who got it, and what it was for, were questions that Means said he could not answer.

He simply said that as an agent of the department of justice, at Smith's orders, he met the Japanese gentleman in the Bellevue Hotel, collected the cash and turned it over to Smith.

Only a few moments before he had calmly revealed this startling story, Means had declared that he took Smith's orders just as he had taken orders from Attorney General Daugherty himself or William J. Burns, for, he declared, he had always "understood" that Smith was the "go-between" for the attorney general, that Smith was the attorney general's "right hand man" and when Daugherty was out of town, Smith occupied his desk.

Means himself is under indictment sold to the Japanese government the in New York for an alleged attempt to model of airplanes used by the United States government.

This is a phase of the matter that was not pursued with any diligence this morning but will be gone into later, according to the startled senators.

While the Japanese bribery aspect was the most startling of Means' many allegations some of his other testimony was scarcely less sensational.

Means also testified he had collected some thousands of dollars in connection with the exhibition of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures and turned it over to Smith and that he had collected around $35,000 or $40,000 in liquor transactions and also turned it over to Smith.

The fight pictures, Means said, were first shown at the home of E. B. McLean here, a private showing attended by the President and Mrs. Harding, Daugherty, and others high in public life.

Washington, Mar. 14.—Sensation tumbled over sensation today in the senate's investigation of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and the department of justice.

Gaston B. Means, former operative for the department of justice and now under indictment in New York on charges of trying to bribe Daugherty, was the first witness and he "spilled" startling information in great quantities. Before he had been on the stand an hour, Means declared:

That he had done private investigation work for the late President Harding, who "wanted some information" about Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

That he had been suspended from the department of justice, because he had been "too active" in investigating the oil situation and the Mexican situation.

That Daugherty informed him that his suspension was caused by the request of an unnamed cabinet officer, the reference being that it was Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior.

That he had collected money for various persons and on various occasions and turned it over to Jess W. Smith, a close personal friend of the attorney general, who lived with him and occupied his (Daugherty's) office when he was away.

That he furnished President Harding with information against the attorney general himself.

That he investigated various senators, including LaFollette of Wisconsin and Caraway of Arkansas, on the orders of Jess Smith, although Smith occupied no official position and he (Means) was an agent of the department of justice, working under William J. Burns.

Means, who has figured in a number of trials and investigations, took the stand over the protests of Daugherty's lawyers, who claimed that the fact that Means was under indictment in New York alone was sufficient to make him an improper witness.

Means took the stand, however, despite the protests.

Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Jesse W. Smith, who for two days has amazed the committee with her stories of alleged "deals" and tales of influence by Smith and Daugherty, was excused this morning temporarily. She pleaded a "nervous headache."

Means waived all immunity when he took the witness chair.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS A WIFE DECLARES D. A. R. SPEAKER

Ida Clyde Clarke, editor of the Pictorial Review, delivered an address on "Uncle Sam Needs a Wife," at the state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Hotel Shawnee, Springfield, Thursday night. She discussed the conduct of men of public affairs, bringing out the blunders that they have made during the past century in which they have possessed the ballot.

Naive and ridiculous inefficiency of men in the conduct of public affairs was pointed out by the speaker with scores of illustrations in supporting her contention that "Uncle Sam Needs a Wife."

She told of an investigation she made to ascertain what had become of $25,000 given by George Washington to found a "University of the United States." That sum, she had computed, would now amount to about $4,000,000. She discovered that a committee, with a suite of offices, had existed for about 20 years, exercising its privilege of hiring non-existent messengers at $100 per month each, and running up other expenses far in excess of the original fund. An investigation committee to investigate the other committee at a cost of many thousands of dollars she declared, had discovered that the original $25,000 had disappeared somewhere in the treasury department, leaving not even a clue.

Referring to the senate as an "old man's home," she declared that in the spending of women's money which that body controls, woman's instinctive judgment and genius for economy is needed.

Speaking in general of the problems which women must meet, she asserted that the problem of world peace and of the double standard of morality are two which women must settle once and for all.

Man-made laws dealing with problems of sexual relationships she characterized as primitive, and scored the double standard of morality, with its accompaniment, legalized vice, as a fundamental social evil which men have never coped with successfully. She cited many illustrations of problems of all kinds which, she asserted, would never have occurred to men.

She exhorted her hearers to take advantage of the great generosity which the press has accorded to woman's affairs, and to get into the paper some of the worth while things women are doing instead of the acres of names and meaningless photographs with which the women's sections of newspapers are now filled.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

TODAY CREDIT HAS ALMOST SUPPLANTED
EXCHANGE OF GOODS.

Years ago cash was a big factor in the exchange of goods. Today credit has almost supplanted it, in business.

We usually think of buying goods for cash, yet as a matter of fact only a small per cent of actual transactions are for cash. The most important is the ordinary bank check.

It would make a lot of trouble for a man if he had to carry enough money down to his office in the morning to buy a house.

The percentage of cash business transactions is so small that it probably would fall between 7 and 7.12 per cent of the total amount used in business today.

LONDON RADIO CALL HEARD IN AMERICA THURSDAY NIGHT

New York, March 14.—Several hundred thousand radio fans, representing virtually every nook and corner of the United States, glued their ears to their receivers last night in an effort to gather in the waves of the first British broadcast aimed at America.

Although weather conditions did not favor the waves, and great amounts of static electricity filled the atmosphere, reports coming in from various parts of country indicate that the vigilance of many American listeners was rewarded.

This was especially true of the smaller towns located in the open spaces of the New England States, a territory that has always been good for English reception.

The first report on success for New York City came to E. Temple, who is representing the English broadcasters in American from William G. H. Finch, radio editor, residing in the Bronx. At 8:15 o'clock Mr. Finch, using a special radio frequency amplifier involving more tubes than the average amateur can handle with efficiency, succeeded in tuning in the third number of the program which turned out to be an American song hit, "I Love You," which was played by the band of the Hotel Savoy at London.

Since all local stations had discontinued sending in fairness to the English effort, Mr. Finch was able to catch virtually every note of the music, although static was severe.

Every broadcasting station in England joined their outfits in such a way that they worked as a solid unit controlled from a special studio in the Hotel Savoy. While each station was operating on its own wave length the entire power of the whole system was radiated into space. This represented, as measured in terms of the layman, about eight horse power of electric energy, or about one sixtieth of the total broadcast energy of all American stations.

Although this is a large amount of power, as broadcasting power goes authorities hold that much more favorable results would have been obtained if the test had been carried on later in the night. The air, they point out, is not in the best condition for long distance reception directly after sundown.

Cincinnati, March 14.—Cincinnati radio enthusiasts were successful in picking up messages and music broadcast from England yesterday.

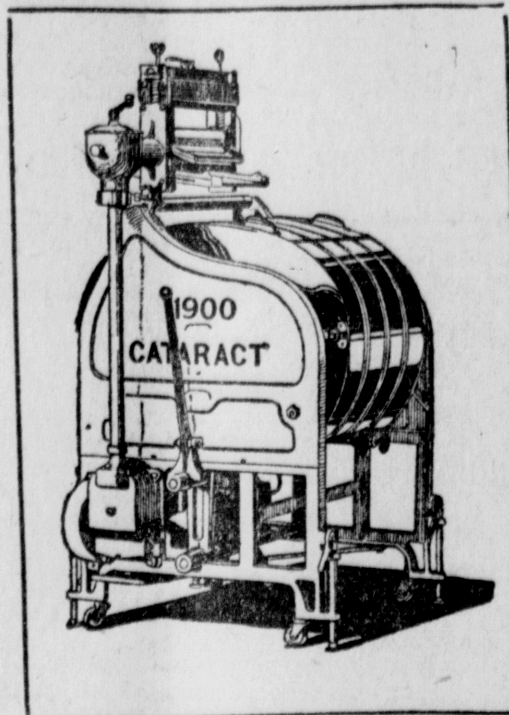

T. P. Price, 1135 Eastern avenue, reported that he heard Signor William Marconi's speech as sent out from Station 2LO, London, and that the speech and later selections by the orchestra of the Hotel Savoy were received distinctly by ear phones, although they did not carry well through his loud speaker.

B. E. Nehring, of Covington, made a similar report, and others certain of whom did not know of the experiment, told of hearing the transatlantic messages.

Why Wash by Old Methods?

IN MARCH 1898

The 1900 Washer Company built its first washer. It now seems a crude affair, but it used the principle of Cataraction which flushes hot suds over, under and through the fabrics. No one has ever devised a more thorough or efficient method. That was 26 years ago.

TO-DAY

The 1900 Cataract stands at the peak of achievement in the history of electric washers. It has passed through the experimental stage. Tests with every other type of washer have proved the superiority of the oscillating tub. The Cataract is the only oscillator with double action—up and down and back and forth at the same time, doing twice the work in half the time. All devices inside the tub have been eliminated to make more room for the clothes and to prevent wear and tear of the fabrics.

XENIA PRIEST IS TRANSFERRED TO CHURCH IN DAYTON

The Rev. Albert A. Burke, pastor of St. Brigid's Catholic Church here has been appointed pastor of Corpus Christi Church, Forest Avenue, Dayton, by Archbishop Henry Moeller, of Cincinnati.

The appointment takes effect March 22, and the Xenia priest will succeed the Rev. James W. Fogarty, who resigned because of ill health after almost a year's absence from his duties. No appointment to the Xenia pastorate has as yet been announced.

Announcement of the transfer of the Rev. Father Burke was received with mingled emotions by members of the congregation here, who regret the termination of the most successful pastorate the local church has had in years and are at the same time pleased that the successes attained by the Rev. Father Burke here have been recognized by Archbishop Moeller by the promotion to the larger congregation.

In the five years of his pastorate here, the Rev. Father Burke has endeared himself to his congregation by his capable management of the church and school affairs which has placed the congregation on a sound financial footing for the first time in years. Coming here when the parish was burdened by a debt of practically $25,000 still existing on the school built several years before, he threw his efforts into a plan to relieve this burden which culminated last spring with the announcement that the last of the debt had been paid off.

The Rev. Father Burke is a native of Hamilton, and after receiving his early education there he began his theological studies at St. Gregory Preparatory Seminary at Mt. Washington, Cincinnati. Graduating from the seminary in 1899 he went to Rome, Italy, where he completed his studies in the American College, graduating in 1904. He was ordained a priest in September of the same year and was assigned to St. Gregory Seminary as an instructor, where he was located three years.

He took his first pastorate at Milford, Ohio and through the application of strict business methods in the administration of the church affairs, he cleared the way for the erection of a new church there. He came to Xenia April 6, 1919, succeeding the Rev. James D. Quinn, who had resigned because of ill health, but who has since returned to duty and is now in charge of a congregation at South Charleston. When the Rev. Father Burke came here he found the congregation laboring under the burden of the school debt. He immediately asserted his qualities of business leadership, and through the strict application of these methods was able to gradually dissolve this debt through no other means of acquiring the money than the regular collections. The final payment of the debt last spring was the signal for quiet rejoicing in the congregation.

In addition to administering to the affairs of the parish, the Rev. Father Burke took an active interest in the success of the parochial schools. He increased the high school curricula to a regular, four-year course, and raised the standards of both grade and high schools. He found time from his pastoral duties each day to give a majority of his time to teaching in the school, which has been an important aid to the congregation in carrying on the school.

The transfer to the Dayton pastorate is the second honor that has come to the Xenia priest in the last few days from Archbishop Moeller as he was only recently named examiner of junior clergy for the Cincinnati diocese.

As the transfer is to take effect March 22, it is believed Archbishop Moeller will appoint a successor to the Rev. Father Burke before that time. In case the appointment is not made, it is expected that the Xenia priest will continue his local duties until his place can be filled. The Dayton pastorate has an assistant, now being filled by the Rev. Father Sourdis, who has been actively in charge of the parish since the Rev. Father Fogarty was given leave of absence about a year ago. It is not known whether he will continue as assistant under the Rev. Father Burke.

The Misses Mary and Elizabeth Burke, sisters of the Rev. Father Burke, make their home with him here.

BOBBED HAIR AND BRAIN POWER

A school teacher in a city was discharged by the board and the superintendent because she persisted in bobbing her hair. The young woman said that pruning her locks did not reduce her brain power. She said that bobbed hair really made for sanitation and efficiency, but the directors seemed to think that a snipped thatch was a device of Lucifer and declined to trust their offspring to a woman shorn of her tresses. So the young lady packed her curling iron and went to another school. While bobbed hair seems a crime to some narrow souls and a misdemeanor to others, it still commends itself to vast numbers for its mingled comfort and smartness. Anything that will take ten years from a matron's age may be a crime, but it is one that can be easily condoned.

IS W. "RED" FADING OUT IN THE NORTHWEST

Minnesota now has two Farmer Labor Senators. The Republican Party in that State was well-nigh taken over bodily by the Radical-Farmer elements in sending Magnus Johnson and Hendrik Shipstead to Washington. Considering Minnesota political drifts for the last two years, it would seem that nothing less than a radical of the Republican radicals would be satisfactory to Minnesota's Republicans. President Coolidge is opposed to almost everything radicalism favors. Nevertheless, Minnesota's Republican delegation will come to Cleveland with its twenty-seven votes pledged to Coolidge first, last and all the time. Iowa took somewhat similar action last week, though it has been less than two years since it sent Senator Brookhart to the capital. Is the red tinge fading out of the Northwest?

LET US KEEP COOL AWHILE

After all the thunderous speeches in the Senate about the oil leases, it is now possible to hear the still, small voice of the Congressional Record in 1919 and 1920. Extracts published prove up to the hilt what had asserted before. The policy of leasing oil in government lands was deliberately entered upon. It was approved by both parties. Senator Smoot stated on Monday that the leasing acts of February, 1920, were "unanimously agreed to by both sides of the chamber." Neither was there any special debate or dispute about the amendment of June 4, 1920, giving authority to the Secretary of the Navy to extract oil from the lands held for a naval reserve. The need for at least making a beginning of getting the oil out and storing it was twofold, as was demonstrated at the time. Oil under ground was in no sense an emergency reserve for the navy. It had to be pumped, piped, refined and made quickly accessible in storage tanks if it was to be at all in the nature of a supply in the event of a sudden war. Furthermore, the oil in the naval resources was being steadily drained by outside wells.

It was, then, a perfectly understood plan, fully agreed upon, which the government then undertook. The latter outcry about a mysterious and sinister plot to secure the necessary legislation is purely an afterthought. This is not to affirm that the leases made with the Doheny companies in California or the Sinclair organization in Wyoming were drawn with the scrupulous care that should have been shown. That is a question to be submitted to the courts. So is the question whether the leases went beyond the authority conferred by Congress, along with the question whether President Harding exceeded the power of the Executive in ordering the naval oil reserves to be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Interior department. Here is matter enough for the lawyers to fight over for years. If the granting of the leases was tainted by corruption, it will be easier to void them.

CIRCULATION OF THE BIBLE FOR ONE YEAR EXCEEDS BEST TEN BOOKS FOR TEN YEARS

Occupying the block bounded by Third and Fourth avenues, Ninth and Tenth streets, is the American Bible Society, founded New York City in 1816 for the purpose of "encouraging a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures without notes or comments." The society is nonsectarian and conducts work both in the United States and foreign countries.

Its total issue of Scriptures for the last 108 years from its own presses has been 150,000,000 Bibles.

Last year this worthy American institution reached its high mark of distribution in the United States—2,130,000 copies of the Good Book. That was almost twice as many as the previous year. About 15 per cent of them were gifts.

In addition, the same society distributed nearly 4,000,000 Bibles in Central and South America, Eastern Asia and the Near East. The demand for Bibles in this foreign area was four times greater than the supply.

The American Bible Society prints and distributes Bibles in 150 different languages and for the blind in six different type systems. Dr. William I. Haven, secretary of the society, has obtained some figures upon the world distribution of Bibles from all sources last year. It reaches the staggering total of about 30,000,000 copies printed in from 650 to 700 languages.

The British and Foreign Bible Society, an older organization than the American organization, last year alone sent forth 8,000,000 Bibles. The constant need for more Bibles is because they wear out like anything else.

"The circulation of the ten books most popular for ten years will not equal the circulation of the Bible for one year," said Dr. Carter.

For some weeks past there has been much talk about a warm fight in the Greene County Republican primary election this spring, but the supposed candidates failed to materialize and the contest will be a tame affair.

"What is the matter with my leather upholstery?" writes a Column Reader. "It is beginning to crack. I have always been careful to keep it well dusted and keep it out of the sun. Should I have given it any other care?"

It is a pity that furniture dealers do not instruct their salesmen to inform purchasers of the care of leather upholstery, after buying it. For it requires constant care if it is to resist wear and be kept from cracking. Indoor heat dries leather and for this reason the leather should be gone over once a month with oil, to prevent parching. As any oil will darken leather, in time, use as light an oil as possible—such as paraffin, lemon oil, neatfoot oil or linseed oil. Do not oil the leather, however, unless you are sure it is clean. Otherwise the dust, mixed with the oil, will form a sticky film. To clean it, use the following home-made solution: Cleaning Solution for Leather Upholstery.—Put one bar of white soap into a bowl with one cup of water; when the soap has dissolved, add one cup of alcohol and two cups of paraffin oil (or any other light oil). ## THE BEAUTY OF EARTH

When I get too disappointed in human beings, and my own failures pile too high for me to see light and truth, I always turn to the earth.

There it is that I always find compensations which make up for all that I seem to have loved and lost.

We must all pick out our own pet philosophies. I find that the beauty of earth furnishes men the finest material from which I am able to extract at least one sound philosophy of life.

I find, for instance, that a blade of grass, a tree, a strange flower in a strange land, a new composition of rock, a bird which I have never seen before, each has a separate story of truth and loveliness out of which I may see new issues of life gushing.

I grow cold and indifferent to old laws that are dead to the conditions and events of today. I am bored by the person who will not move, who cannot see in life something that is unfolding life all the time.

The beauty of earth is a panorama of the thought of God.

But of course you can't get that thought if you stand still and refuse to believe when you see truth right under your eyes.

Most famous people are mere curiosities. The great create no curiosity. We just bare our heads to them until they are dead—and then we rear monuments to their memory. But we don't tell how great they are for fear we will frighten them. They are like the beauty of earth, confusing to us until we are wrapped in its silent arms, stilling to all save the breath of memory.

When I buy real estate, I do so because I love it, not because I hope to make money out of it. I am thrilled by the thought of renting for a time the touch of the Creator's hand. Out of my window I see the tracks of a baby's feet in the sand. God has just walked by!

OUT IN THE COUNTRY
It is nice to live out in the country.
From the noise of the city away,
'Twould be nice to live where every landscape is fair—
If only the servants would stay.

It is fine to have acres of garden,
With roses that climb on the wall,
It is nice to be out where the cows browe about—
But the servants don't like it at all.

The snow on the country is lovely,
The trees in their mantle of fleece
And the calm of the night are a joy and delight—
But the servants aren't hungry for peace.

The hedgerows are treasures of beauty,
There's a charm in the ice-sheeted
pond,
And the snow drifts which roll are a joy to the soul—
But of these not a servant is fond.
It is nice to live out in the country,

Far out where the children can play,
Far away from the strife of the harsh

But you can't get a servant to stay.

Negotiations for the purchase of the Talbott farm near Bellbrook, are expected to be closed next week, according to Nelson Talbott.

The property is to be sold to a Springfield man, whose name was not divulged, in case the deal is completed. The negotiations have been under way for several months.

The tract consists of more than 1,000 acres of land of a rolling type, and is one of the finest in Greene County. It has been in the possession of the Talbott estate for a number of years. Many of the fine cattle owned by the Talbotts are kept on the farm. Certain sections of it also were used as a game preserve.

In addition to the fine residence on the farm, Harold E. Talbott, Jr., erected a cabin on the farm about two years ago. The larger house is used by the tenant as a home.

The negotiations are expected to be closed at a conference to be held the first part of next week.

Rev. M. de S. Caralt and Valasquez painting

Rev. M. de S. Caralt is shown with the long missing portrait of Queen Isabella II, wife of King Phillip IV., of Spain, by Don Juan Rodriguez y Valasquez, one of the greatest of all Spanish artists. The portrait was brought to New York by Father Caralt, missionary apostolic, now head of the Chinatown Catholic Mission. The painting was done about 1627, and for nearly 300 years masqueraded as that of St. Theresa, the original having been covered by a nun's garment by an unknown artist. That layer of paint being removed, the original painting was discovered.

ASKS FOR INJUNCTION

Ray Garringer, as guardian of Thelma Browder, Marcella Browder and Eugene Browder, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Charles P. Browder, seeking to enjoin the defendant from selling, mortgaging or otherwise disposing of certain property which he alleges is the property of his wards.

The property consists of 123.13 acres in Silvercreek and Jefferson Townships. The defendant, Charles P. Browder, is father of the children and was originally appointed guardian but later resigned. The plaintiff alleges he has been farming the land and keeping the proceeds from the children, is failing to keep up the place and is threatening to mortgage or sell the place. William S. Howard is attorney for the plaintiff.

SUES ON OLD NOTE

Two notes, one of which dates from May 9, 1899, are made the basis of an action filed in Common Pleas Court by The Home Building and Savings Company against Walter Morris and Flora Morris.

The original note was executed by William Morris and his wife Rebecca, and secured by a mortgage on 148.97 acres of land in Sugar-creek Township. The plaintiff claims there is still due $3,146.83 including interest, from Walter Morris, heir of the original signers, both of whom are now deceased. The plaintiff is also suing for judgment on a note of $800 with interest executed by Walter and Flora Morris, and secured by a mortgage on the same land. The claim totals $3,979.96 on which the plaintiff asks judgment and foreclosure. H. S. LeSourd is attorney for the plaintiff.

CASE IS APPEALED

the plaintiffs a judgment of $58.75. Marcus Shoup is attorney for the plaintiff and Matthews and Matthews represent counsel for the defendants.

Takes pills for years—finds first permanent relief in Kellogg's Bran

Have you found permanent relief from that terrible disease—constipation? The woman whose letter follows discovered—as thousands have discovered—that Kellogg's Bran succeeds when all else fails. This is because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. This is what she wrote:

"Gentlemen, I am so wonderfully happy over my discovery, I feel I must tell the world about it. For years I have been ill continually from constipation, always resorting to pills or the like, never having any permanent relief until I heard of your Krumble Bran.

Every morning I take two table-spoonfuls before my breakfast—and since the latter part of August I must admit have not experienced one sick spell which I have had for years. I have started my little girl of four years on your Bran, and already I have noticed a change in her. I thank you."

Name and address furnished on request. Write the Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic cases of constipation. Eat at least two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Money returned if not effective.

Notice the wonderful nut-like flavor. This flavor is delicious—so different from ordinary, unpalatable bran.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, made in Battle Creek, is served by America's leading hotels and clubs. Demand Kellogg's Bran. It will bring back your health. Start eating it today. Sold by all grocers.

PROFESSOR BARES HOBO PSYCHOLOGY

Urbana, Ill., March 14—"But for the grace of providential circumstances you, too, would be a hobo." This statement, directed at American citizens in general, by Prof. E. H. Sutherland, head of the Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois, startled a group of natty attired college students and learned sociologists, whom he addressed here.

"The hobo is a product of modern civilization, and understanding him helps us to understand ourselves," the professor continued. He defined the hobo as a migratory worker, in contrast to the tramp, who is a migratory non-worker, and the bum who is a stationary non-worker. But they all tend to degenerate into the bum class, he added. "The hobo is a hobo because his desire for new experiences is overdeveloped," Prof. Sutherland explained. "There are four wishes which control all human behavior—that for new experience, that for security, that for recognition by society, that for respect from fellow men. We all have a great desire for new experiences, but we get them by reading, by the theater, and so on. The hobo gets his by moving from place to place."

To teach the hobo how to gratify his desire for new experiences and at the same time support his family and fill a useful place in society is the solution of the hobo problem, the sociologist said.

Half a million hoboes pass through Chicago in a year and other cities are visited about in proportion to their population, according to estimates.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

Mr. Eugene Waugh of 56 Bee Street, Huntington, W. Va., well-known shoe repairer, thinks there is nothing like Ka-di-ok since it relieved him of a chronic case of stomach trouble. He said:

"I have suffered constantly from stomach trouble as far back as I can remember—anywhere from fifteen to twenty years. Have never known what it meant to be entirely free from indigestion after eating during all that time. It made no difference how light the food was, it always fermented and caused me to feel miserable afterwards. Needless to say, I tried everything that I thought would relieve me, but failed to get better. "I saw Ka-di-ok advertised so decided to try it. I accordingly bought a bottle and by the time I had finished it I could notice an improvement in my condition. I took several more bottles and now my stomach trouble has entirely disappeared, and I am much stronger and feel entirely well." Stomach sufferers and weak, nervous, run-down men and women should try Ka-di-ok. It cannot fail to help them.

Ka-di-ok can be had in Xenia at Sayre and Hemphill Drug Store.

ICED WATERMELONS FOR FEBRUARY FAIR

Fort Myers, Fla., Feb. 20—Iced watermelons will be placed on sale at the South Florida Fair, Tampa, in February, it was revealed here when L. Lamereaux, an ambitious farmer, of Estero Island, appeared before the manager of the Fair Grounds and demanded a commercial booth.

"Yes, sir; I have 1,500 to 2,000 watermelons now," Lamereaux said. "I am sure of them, and barring frost, I'll have more. I raised these melons on six acres of land. Those folks in Tampa think it can't be done, but I'm going to show them." Lamereaux owns a small farm on Estero Island, on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico, 40 miles south of this city. He started Fair Ground authorities when he appeared and asked for a booth to sell iced melons in February, a thing heretofore unheard of in this section.

The modest farmer said his melons would be shipped to Tampa in carload lots and that later some of them will be shipped with the exhibit from his county (Lee) for display at Madison Square Garden, New York.

The melons that will be sold at the fair are known as Irish Grays. They will average 15 to 18 pounds each, Lamereaux said, although some of them will be much heavier.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Francis went round to the garage for his car, and brought it to the front. While he was sitting there, Sir Timothy came through the door in the wall. He was smoking a cigar and he was holding an umbrella to protect his white flannel suit. He was as usual wonderfully groomed and turned out, but he walked as though he were tired, and his smile, as he greeted Francis, lacked a little of its usual lighthearted mockery.

In the distance they could hear the sound of hammering on the other side of the wall. Francis moved his head in that direction.

"I hear that they are preparing for another of your wonderful entertainments over there," he remarked.

"On Thursday," Sir Timothy assented. "I shall have something to say to you about it later on."

"Am I to take it that I am likely to receive an invitation?" Francis asked.

"I should think it possible," was the calm reply.

"What about Margaret?"

"My entertainment would not appeal to her," Sir Timothy declared. "The women whom I have been in the habit of asking are not women of Margaret's type."

"And Lady Cynthia?"

Sir Timothy frowned slightly. "I find myself in some difficulty as regards Lady Cynthia," he admitted. "I am the guardian of nobody's morals, nor am I the censor of their tastes, but my entertainments are for men. The women whom I have hitherto asked have been women in whom I have taken no personal interest. They are necessary to form a picturesque background for my rooms, in the same way that I look to the gardeners to supply the floral decorations. Lady Cynthia's instincts, however, are somewhat adventurous. She would scarcely be content to remain a decoration."

"The issuing of your invitations," Francis remarked, "is of course a matter which concerns nobody else except yourself. If you do decide to favor me with one, I shall be delighted to come, provided Margaret has no objection."

"Such a reservation promises well for the future," Sir Timothy observed, with gentle sarcasm. "Here comes Margaret, looking very well, I am glad to see."

Margaret came forward to greet her father before stepping into the car. They exchanged only a few sentences, but Francis, whose interest in their relations was almost abnormally keen, fancied that he could detect signs of some change in their demeanor towards one another. The old propriety of deportment which had characterized her former attitude towards her father, seemed to have given place to something more uncertain, to something less formal, something which left room even for a measure of cordiality. She looked at him differently. It was as though some evil thought which lived in her heart concerning him had perished.

"You are busy over there, father?" she asked.

"In a way," he replied. "We are preparing for some festivities on Thursday."

Her face fell. "Another party?"

"One more," he replied. "Perhaps the last—for the present, at any rate."

She waited as though expecting him to explain. He changed the subject, however.

"I think you are wise to run up to town this morning," he said, glancing up at the gray skies. "By-the-by, if you dine at Curzon street tonight, do ask Hedges to serve you some of the '90 Claret. A marvelous wine, as you doubtless know. Ledsam, but it should be drunk. Au revoir!"

Francis, after a pleasant lunch at Ranelagh, and having arranged with Margaret to dine with her in Curzon street, spent an hour or two that afternoon at his chambers. As he was leaving, just before five, he came face to face with Shopland descending from a taxi.

"Are you busy, Mr. Ledsam?" the latter inquired. "Can you spare me half an hour?"

"An hour, if you like," Francis assented.

Shopland gave the driver an address and the two men seated themselves in the taxicab.

"Any news?" Francis asked curiously.

"Not yet," was the cautious reply. "It will not be long, however."

"Before you discover Reggie Wilmore?"

The detective smiled in a superior way. "I am no longer particularly interested in Mr. Reginald Wilmore," he declared. "I have come to the conclusion that his disappearance is not a serious affair."

"It's serious enough for his relatives," Francis objected.

"Not if they understood the situation," the detective rejoined. "Assure them from me that nothing of consequence has happened to that young man. I have made inquiries at the gymnasium in Holborn, and in other directions. I am convinced that his absence from home is voluntary, and that there is no cause for alarm as to his welfare."

"Then the sooner you make your way down to Kensington and tell his mother so, the better," Francis said, a little severely. "Don't forget that I put you onto this."

"Quite right, sir," the detective acquiesced. "and I am grateful to you. The fact of it is that in making my preliminary investigations with regard to the disappearance of Mr. Wilmore, I have stumbled upon a bigger thing. Before many weeks are past, I hope to be able to unearth one of the greatest scandals of modern times."

Men, as a rule, don't enthuse much over articles of apparel.

Ever since the first lid was lifted on this Spring display—the lid has been off.

We have been swept off our feet selling hats to men who have never had two feet in this store before—and in two weeks we have closed almost a season's business.
